

Distance Learning Transformation

As the Army transforms, distance learning (DL) has taken on a new look. To standardize online training and for the convenience of students, health and occupational safety courses provided by the Combat Readiness Center now reside on the Army Learning Management System (ALMS).

Combat Readiness University (CRU)

Combat Readiness University II (CRU II)

Army Learning Management System

These following courses are now available on the ALMS:

- Commanders Safety Course
- Additional Duty Safety Course
- Composite Risk Management Basic
- Composite Risk Management Operational
- Composite Risk Management Civilian Basic
- Application of Accident Causation Theory
- Injury Prevention through Leadership
- Theories of Accident Prevention
- Accident Investigations
- Military Briefings

Click on <https://www.lms.army.mil> and follow these instructions:

- 1.Login with your AKO credentials
- 2.In the Catalog search field, click the browse by category. Select Army Safety Center or Combat Readiness/Safety Center
- 3.Register for the course and you are on your way.

Email: dlcoordinator@crc.army.mil for assistance.

ATRRS course Registration

Go to <https://www.atrrs.army.mil>
Click on “Self Development” in the ATRRS Channels Directory
Put course number or course title in search blocks--Click search
Click “Register”
ATRRS registration may take up to 24 hours to confirm
Go to <https://www.lms.army.mil> and complete your training

Specialized Safety Training

Go to the Combat Readiness / Safety Center- <https://safety.army.mil>
Scroll down to Training in the left hand menu
Select Distance Learning / Online Training
Scroll down to Specialized Safety Training--Click Launch
Select New users, click here to enroll
Enter your information in spaces provided
Use your AKO email address
Click next, verify your information, and select enroll
Select the course